

Every Jigsaw lesson from the Early Years to Year 6 offers opportunities for children's SMSC development. This is clearly mapped and balanced across each year group.

PSHE	We promote spiritual development	We promote moral development	We promote social development	We promote cultural development.
	By developing awareness of and responding to others' needs and wants through the core themes 'Being me in my world' and 'Relationships'. By exploring meaning and purpose for individuals and society through the topic 'Being me in my world' where we look at rights and responsibilities. Through PSHE lesson children get to understand themselves – as people, as learners. They know their own special qualities, develop their self-esteem and understand their strengths and weaknesses.	By exploring what is right and wrong and to work out what we need to do in this particular community to make sure everyone thrives. By making explicit links to the school's distinctive core Christian values of friendship, respect and perseverance. Annual anti-bullying week is part of the school year.	By helping pupils to engage in a democratic process for agreeing the rules for community life. E.g. through the work of the School Council, Eco Council and our spiritual leaders and the topic 'Being me in my world'. By creating opportunities for pupils to exercise leadership and responsibility; pupils might be asked 'Why do we think this is important?' What could we do about it?' 'Who would like to take it further?' Through seeking pupil voice when making decisions such as playground improvements or charity events.	By exploring how different cultures can offer great insights into how we lead our lives e.g. the 'relationships: valuing difference' topic. By use of different learning partners without our classes. By working collaboratively in groups. Exploring the values which underpin our society through our PSHE curriculum.
